

Black Solidarity Days

CHANGING THE DYNAMIC:

NOV. 2ND - 5TH

From: "S. E. Anderson"

November 2nd is supposed to be another "Wear Black" Day to show our solidarity with the jena6, Megan Williams (WV rape-torture victim), the Bushwick30 (30 teens arrested for collectively going to a funeral with principal's permission), and to protest the recent racist acquittal of the Florida boot camp murderers of teen M. Anderson, the Noosed Teachers College Prof Madonna Constantine....

Monday Nov 5th is also Black Solidarity Day. We should stay home from work and school and do no shopping- unless at a Black owned business (not a MacDonalds or Burger King franchise!!). This year we should really show OUR power by our absence. We need to take this united stand to boost our collective Black Ego in the midst of this nationwide racist onslaught and to put white America and the powers that be that WE Blackfolk are not going to stand idly by and watch Jim Crow's sons and daughters try to define our existence.

Wear Black and stay home are two simple acts that we can easily do as a Nation of Blackfolk. The power of Black Radio and the internet can help make this happen.

Spread the word.

In Struggle,
Sam Anderson
